

RonCon Dice

In 2011 when I turned 42, I thought it would be appropriate to do something geekie, so I planned a game day at my parents house. Their basement is tailor-made for a small game day! With my pool table down there (I use it more to play games now than play pool), and all that room, we have a blast! From this was birthed what eventually became known as RonCon (I did not name it. I am not that egotistical).
